HUD Project

City Perplexed About Housing

City officials still know very little about HUD-approved housing for low-income and elderly families in Plano.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development approved the 144 housing units for Plano and numerous other units for surrounding suburbs and North Dallas about two weeks ago, but City Manager David Griffin and engineer Bob Buffington have heard sparse news of the impending project since.

"They put more in the newspapers than they do in our hands," Griffin said. "We got a notice back in July that this was being contemplated and haven't really heard anything since."

Tentatively set at Park Boulevard and Avenue N are 60 four-bed, 48 three-bed and 12 two-bed semi-detached row houses and 24 three-bed walk-ups for a total of 144 units.

Buffington said that HUD has not even told the city whether the development will be on the north or south side of Park Boulevard but that "from putting two and two together" he suspects it will be on the south side. "But that's not to say the north side won't get one later," he added.

Once HUD contacts the city again, there should be few problems in beginning the development, said the city manager.

"There are no local restrictions in that particular location for what they want to do," noted Griffin, "but they still have to go through our planning process."

A total of more than $24 million in housing was approved by HUD for Dallas' outlying neighborhoods and the surrounding suburbs. Besides Plano, three other suburbs will receive the new housing—Richardson, Irving and Cedar Hill. North Dallas will also receive a large portion of the housing.

Subsidized under HUD's Section 8 housing plan, the projects will serve both low-income families and low-income elderly residents. The HUD action appears to be a major effort to put more moderate and low-income housing in middle and upper income neighborhoods.

Four hundred of the 1,022 total housing units will be constructed in the suburbs with the remainder going to Dallas.

Standards for choosing projects state they should not generally be located in minority ghettos, in racially mixed areas or where there is a "high proportion of low-income persons."

Witch Pumpkin?

Ghosties and ghoulies, as well as prospective jack o'lanterns, await Planoites at the Magic Pumpkin Patch, sponsored by the Plano Preservation Association and located at Magnolia House Antiques, 1206 14th Street. Pumpkin Patch hours will be Saturday, Oct. 22, and Oct. 27-29 from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 23 and 30, from noon-6 p.m. All proceeds from the sale of the pumpkins will go toward saving the George House—the major project of the Plano Preservation Association. Politicos Back Ruling Candidates Support Torres Action

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex., and Attorney General John Hill have praised the Justice Department for asking a federal grand jury to determine if five Houston policemen involved in the beating and drowning of Joe Campos Torres violated the civil rights of the prisoner.

The grand jury in Houston Thursday indicted four of the officers on charges of violating the civil rights of Torres, 23.

The indictment charges Terry Denson, Stephen Orlando, Joseph Janish and Louis Kinney conspired to violate the civil rights of Torres after a barroom drunk arrest.

The fifth officer, Glenn Brinkmeyer, was named as an unindicted co-conspirator. He pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor civil rights charge filed Thursday. Sentencing was delayed on the charge.

Krueger, a candidate for the U.S. Senate, said the misdemeanor punishments given Denson and Orlando in a Huntsville trial had caused considerable concern.

"To have probated sentences of one-year in a case involving taking of someone's life seemed a very slender punishment," Krueger said.

He said his office had been in daily contact with the Justice Department to ask for a determination as to whether Torres' civil rights had been violated.

"I think that until all Americans and all Texans can feel confident that the laws are going to be enforced equally, none of us will have full confidence in the law and for that reason I think it is very important that this matter be assessed, it is very proper that the attorney general should open the question of whether basic human rights have been violated," said Krueger.

Hill and Gov. Dolph Briscoe both had requested the Justice Department to investigate the case. Hill who is opposing Briscoe in next year's governor's race, said an investigation by his office had determined the former officers had violated Torres' civil rights.

"We are pleased with the prompt action of the Justice Department in presenting this matter to the grand jury," Hill said. "This is another example of the Justice Department following up Attorney General Griffin Bell's new policy of evaluating each case on its own merits."

RATHER QUIT: Comedian Red Foxx says he'll quit before he'll apologize to the parents of Farrah Fawcett-Majors, who threaten to sue him for satirizing them on his ABC-TV show. Foxx appeared in a skit as the actress's father, wearing a Farrah-style wig — as did a dog and a parrot. The Fawcetts say that held them up to ridicule. Says Foxx, "On Saturday Night Live last Saturday they made fun of the guy who got the heart from the chimpanzee. Maybe now they'll hear from him — or maybe they'll hear from the chimpanzee's family." He says he'll cancel his show before he'll apologize and doesn't care if the network sues him for breach of contract — that "everybody on earth can sue me, and when the money runs out I'll be back where I was, and it wasn't so bad."

PRISONER OF LOVE: Sophia Loren says she's all for women's liberation, just as long as it leaves her free to be a slave to the man she loves. Miss Loren, interviewed Thursday in Brussels by the newspaper Le Soir, is the wife of film producer Carlo Ponti. Says she, "I am wholly in agreement with the women's liberation movements ... what I want for women is to be able to make a choice in total independence. For myself, if I so wish, if I am in love, I choose to be a slave. Freely."

COMING HOME: For 7½ years, 29-year-old Bruce Beyer was in exile. Thursday, he came home, saying, "We must demand that no more Vietnamese be allowed to happen." Beyer drew a three-year prison term in 1968 for resisting the draft, but jumped bond and fled to Sweden, then to Canada. He walked across the Peace Bridge from Canada to Buffalo, N.Y., with his parents and attorney, former Attorney General Ramsay Clark, to surrender to U.S. marshals, saying of the war he resisted, "I cannot help but think that if we had been listened to, the lives of 54,000 Americans and more than one million Southeast Asians might have been saved."

Attorneys Consider Advertising Trade

Lubbock, Tex. (UPI) — The board of directors of the State Bar of Texas reluctantly is considering advertising for lawyers.

The board, conducting a three-day meeting which concludes Saturday, must set guidelines for the state's attorneys because of a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling allowing limited advertising for attorneys.

Regardless of what the board decides, many attorneys have indicated they will refrain from advertising.

Houston attorney Vince Rehmet Thursday was vehement in his displeasure over advertising by the legal profession.

"I hate advertising worse than sin," said Rehmet. "I'm not going to engage in it. But we have to be realistic about what the court did and what the court may do."

The board's committee on lawyer advertising has submitted four suggestions.

One plan would permit advertising in print or on radio in the area where the attorney resides. The advertising could include the lawyer's specializations or field of practice, fixed fees for particular services, hourly rates and the fee for initial consultation.

The second plan under consideration is what a board member called an "antifraud" approach. Under this plan, lawyers would be prohibited from advertising on television without bar approval and would be prohibited from advertising statistical data on past performance, endorsements and slogans.

The third plan would discourage advertising but lawyers would be permitted to list fees in newspapers as long as the ads are not "false and misleading."

The fourth plan, and the one most feel will be the one adopted by the board, would allow lawyers to advertise in a "dignified" manner in newspapers and Yellow Pages. Ads could include certain biographical information about the lawyer and specific fee information.

Skateboard Robbery Committed

HULL, England (UPI) — Four youngsters committed Britain's first robbery by skateboard Thursday.

The victim was Mrs. Ruby Chater, 59, who was walking along James Reckitt Avenue swinging her handbag.

The skateboarders, whom she described as being about 15 years old, swept past her from behind and snatched her handbag, which contained $11.

"They were out of sight before I realized what was happening," said Mrs. Chater. "It was all so sudden, I was taken completely by surprise."

"We believe it was the first skateboard mugging in Britain," a police spokesman said.

Hitting the Hay

State Fair-goers who want a little more action than this tired cowboy dozing in the Livestock Building can visit the dozens of rides and amusements on the midway or walk through hundreds of exhibits in fair buildings. Livestock judging and the State Fair rodeo are also going on for those who prefer to sit and watch.

This is the final weekend of Texas' State Fair and Planoites who have not yet joined throngs of more than 200,000 per day have Saturday and Sunday to head to Dallas for the festivities. (Staff photo by Mike Newman).

Liverpool Won't Honor Most Famous Quartet

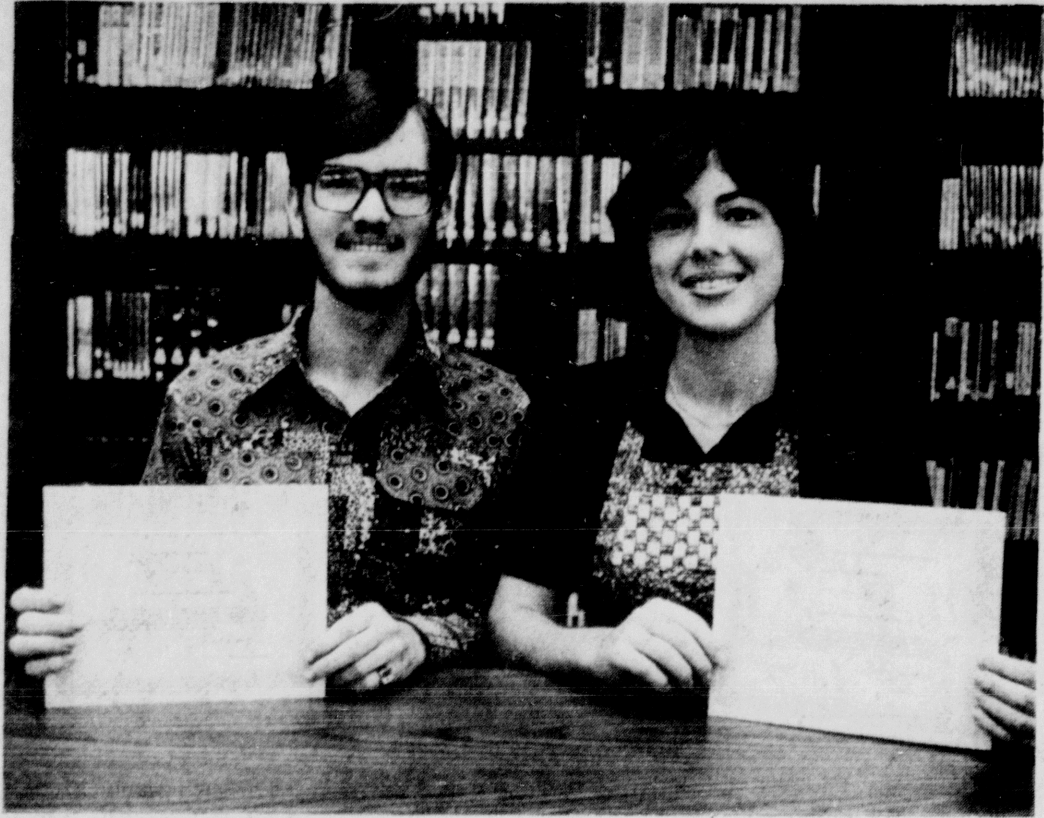

LIVERPOOL, England (UPI) — The home town of the Beatles has decided the group is not worthy enough to be remembered formally.

The city's General Purposes Committee Thursday voted 10-8 against plans to erect a statue in honor of the "fab four" — John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr — who emerged from obscurity in Liverpool to imprint the "Mersey sound" on pop music worldwide in the 1960s.

"They aren't worthy of a place in our history," said councilor Rod Stodart, chairman of the committee which was asked to authorize a lifesize statue. "They made a lot of money and we have never seen them since they departed from the scene."

Councilor Tony McVeigh said the Beatles' behavior heaped "tremendous discredit" on their hometown once they became famous. John Lennon, he said, proffered "an absolute insult" to Queen Elizabeth II when he returned her medal making him a Member of the British Empire.

"They turned down requests to appear in the city for official functions. I am dead against having the statue," McVeigh said. "They ended up taking drugs and bringing tremendous discredit to the city. They could not sing for toffee."

Literary Awards

School Writers Honored

Tim Wilson and Suzanne Ewing, seniors at Plano Senior High School, have been named winners of the 1977 NCTE Achievement Award in Writing by the National Council of Teachers of English.

More than 7,000 students were nominated last February by their English teachers for the NCTE awards. Each participant wrote an impromptu essay on the same topic and submitted a sample of his or her best finished writing. The compositions were evaluated by state judging teams of both high school and college English teachers.

About 850 finalists were selected this year representing high schools in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and American schools abroad. The number of winners for each state is keyed to the state population.

The Council recommends the award finalists for college scholarships should they need such assistance. Names of the students are sent to admissions officers and English department chairman at U.S. two and four-year colleges and universities.

Tim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilson of 2741 Northcrest and Suzanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Ewing of 2724 Northcrest.

Tim, whose interests lie in journalism and publications, has been on the staff of the "Perspicacity," the literary magazine, since its organization two years ago. He is a student in technical theater and French, but his primary emphasis is Journalism Major Studies.

Suzanne divides her interests between theater and science. She is a student in Physics II and Advance Placement Biology, but also enjoys Theater Major Studies.

She has had major roles in two productions, "The Glass Menagerie" and "Godspell."

Both students are in Advance Placement English as PSHS.

"I am very pleased for the students because both of them are very talented writers," expressed Bettye

Mischen, secondary English coordinator. "I am also pleased because this is a national award with only 13 percent of those students participating named as winners."

The National Council of Teachers of English is a professional organization of individual and institutional members at all levels of instructions. Its goal is to increase the effectiveness of the teaching of English language and literature in the nation's schools and colleges. NCTE furnishes such teaching aids as books and recordings, and publishes several professional journals.

Language Instruction Will Teach English

To most people in Plano, English comes naturally. This is not true, however, for many of the hundreds of residents who were born overseas in such non-English speaking countries as Japan, Korea, Vietnam, Thailand, Iran, and in the Arab world and even Europe.

To help meet the needs of these people, classes in English are being organized to serve the Richardson-Plano-Garland area. The idea for the courses came from the experience of Kagenobu Nakamoto of Irving, who works as a missionary among Japanese in Texas under the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention. He found countless Japanese residing in Texas who were handicapped because of language weakness.

Sponsoring the instruction is the Council for International Training, a non-profit organization headed by Howard F. Van Zandt, professor of international management studies at the University of Texas at Dallas. Other officers are David Ramsour of the First National Bank of Dallas, and Hirokuni Inoue of Unicorp Int'l Inc., Dallas.

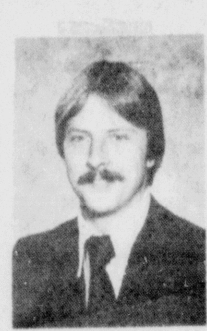

The instruction for students in the Richardson-Plano-Garland area will be given in Garland in a series of courses, each lasting six weeks. Penny Hesse who taught English in Tokyo will be in charge.

The next classes will commence October 25. There will be three separate courses, one meeting Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30, another meeting evenings on the same days, from 7:30 to 9:30, and a third meeting once a week on Saturdays from 1 to 5 p.m.

Information about the location of the classes and enrollment may be obtained by calling Mrs. Hesse at 495-1989. The charge for the instruction and books will be $55.

Professor Van Zandt reports that a large percentage of the foreigners in the Dallas area have never visited such points of interest as San Antonio and Houston.

Ballet Kicks Off French Market

The Dallas Civic Ballet will help to kick-off the Oct. 22-23 University of Texas at Dallas French Market with a Saturday noon performance. The troop of 14 professional dancers will perform four works from their repertoire including "Pas d'Quatre," "Daphnis and Chloe," and the pas de deux from "Nutcracker." Keeping with the French flavor of the markets, they also will perform the rousing "Can-Can."

Internationally-known choreographer George Skibine and his wife, Marjorie Tallchief, will be artistic director and assistant director, respectively. Skibine is the former director of the Paris Opera Ballet, where his wife also performed.

The Ballet will be held at noon in the Green Center Lobby on the UT-Dallas campus.

Planoites Participate In Fair

Plano artists will be represented Saturday and Sunday when the annual Sale Street Fair turns the antique shop-lined two-block area into a French fairland.

Sale Street Fair, held each year in conjunction with the Neiman-Marcus Fortnight, will be held from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. each day and will feature artists, craftsmen, antiques, children's entertainment, bands and French foods, demonstrations and displays. Sale Street is located off Cedar Springs in the Oak Lawn area.

Those from Plano participating in the show include Kathy Hirschler, flower arrangements; Jo Anne Huffman and Sue McClintock, antiques; R. Louis McGill, woodcrafts and birdhouses, and Eddie Pettegrew, suncatchers.

Doctors Watch Out for Flu

Officials Hope to Curb Outbreaks

The Texas Department of Health will conduct and coordinate a program of influenza surveillance during the upcoming respiratory disease season in an effort to identify and halt potential local outbreaks of influenza.

Unlike last year, no influenza vaccine will be provided by federal and state governments and no influenza immunizations will be offered in state-operated public health clinics.

"This policy, however, shouldn't detract from the importance of an effective influenza surveillance program," says Dr. Charles Webb, Jr., chief of the Bureau of Communicable Disease Services of the Texas Department of Health. "Only through such a program can influenza viruses be isolated, characterized and a determination be made of emerging strains."

Dr. Webb said that in order to have enough lead time to produce the right vaccines for the next year, vaccines are produced from strains of the current year. Even though free influenza shots will not be given this year, the Department does recommend that certain groups be immunized.

"Each year in Texas we have had an excess illness and death from influenza among older persons," says Linda L. Chandler, R.N., director of Surveillance, Control, and Information Activities.

"We support the Center for Disease Control recommendation that those over 65 years of age receive influenza immunization. We also recommend flu immunizations for adults and children with chronic conditions such as heart disease, bronchitis or diabetes."

Influenza, or flu, is an acute respiratory illness whose symptoms include fever, cough, sore throat, a "runny" nose, and general aches.

Most patients recover completely within a week, although many continue to feel unusually tired for some time. To the aged or chronically ill, however, flu may be a life-threatening illness.

During the last century alone, there have been seven instances of global spread, known as pandemics, and numerous epidemics, when the occurrence of influenza is more or less restricted to one region.

Outbreaks of flu usually occur abruptly. The disease spreads through communities, peaking in about three weeks and subsiding after another three to four weeks. Twenty to 50 percent of susceptible members of the population may be affected, with the highest incidence in children ages five to 14.

The most frequent complication of flu is a secondary bacterial infection in the lower respiratory tract. Usually these bacterial infections can be successfully treated with antibiotics. In recent years, however, drug-resistant pneumonias, especially among hospital patients, have been on the increase.

Developmental research is concerned with determining the best method of giving influenza vaccine. The exact mechanism of spread by the influenza virus is not completely understood, but it is believed that the agent enters the body through the upper respiratory tract.

Antibodies produced in that area, therefore should be more protective than those induced in the circulating blood.

Consequently, nose drops and sprays are being compared with the more conventional injections. Vaccines are, of course, only preventive. They are of no value after the disease is underway.

Physicians usually advise patients with flu to go to bed, drink plenty of fluids, and to take aspirins to control fever and aches.

Elephant Roundup Is Annual Event

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — The elephant roundup at Surin, in northeastern Thailand, will be held Nov. 19 this year.

The annual event shows how elephants work in Thailand and features a tug-of-war between 100 men and an elephant.

There are no hotels at Surin, near the Cambodian border, so the Tourist Organization of Thailand has again laid on special trains to and from the roundup.

For $70, tourists get air-conditioned sleeping cars, four meals, the elephant roundup and guided tours of Surin.

Personnel 'Care' At Nursing Home

"We Care" is the slogan of Plano's newest home for the aging.

Park Place Nursing Center, 3208 Thunderbird Lane, opened its doors on Aug. 25 under the direction of administrator George (Butch) Fulgham and his wife Toby, assistant administrator, both licensed nursing home administrators.

Other key personnel include Sally Guldi, director of nurses and Billy Murphy, food service supervisor.

The home will be open to the public during open house activities Sunday at 2 p.m.

Park Place features 24-hour-a-day nursing service, with LVNs on constant duty and a registered nurse on duty seven days a week.

Other features are planned activities for residents.

In Winter

Less Water Saves Trees

You can help your backyard fruit, nut and shade trees withstand winter cold if you will "cut their water off", points out James R. Risinger, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The principle involved is the hardening off process which hothouse grown plants are subjected to before transplanting. Hardening is done by gradually subjecting a plant to more harsh growing conditions so that it "toughens up" and will withstand adverse conditions better, such as cold and drought.

A backyard tree you have been pampering with plenty of water and perhaps fertilizer tends to be soft and succulent and susceptible to cold injury, explains Risinger. As autumn approaches, days grow shorter and temperatures get lower and lower. This starts to harden the tree.

To help this process, give your trees a good deep soaking as deep as the roots go (usually 4-5 feet) from the middle to the last of September, then cut off the watering (except shallow watering for lawns) until about Christmas. The root zone of a tree rooting 3 feet deep will store plenty of water to last until the first killing frost.

From mid-September until frost the tree continues to withdraw water from the soil. As it does so, the available water supply in the root zone shrinks lower and lower and becomes harder and harder for the roots to absorb. This gradually puts the tree under stress which slows down its growth and hardens its cells.

All the tree needs now to trigger it into dormancy is a gentle nudge—the first killing frost. Your tree is now ready for winter, says the county agent.

ASK DOC GARD'NER

by NEIL SPERRY

Dear Doc: We had brown patch badly last fall in our St. Augustine. How do we recognize it early and how do we control it?

Grass will turn tan in irregular patches 2-10 feet in diameter. Leaves will be deteriorated and will pull easily away from the runners. Runners will remain attached to the soil. Control with terraclor or benomyl.

Dear Doc: How can we control poison ivy in our pecan trees?

Ammate is probably best, particularly when applied to active growth. Cut the vines off near the ground and remove the stem as high as you can reach. Spray new growth with the herbicide, keeping it off desirable foliage.

Dear Doc: Several large live oaks in our neighborhood have slowly faded away. Now there's only one-tenth the leaves we used to have. Is this a disease? What do we do?

Sounds like live oak decline, a fungal organism that blocks conducting tissues. A tree man can identify the problem precisely and suggest some means of slowing its spread. Unfortunately we have no reliable chemical control.

Dear Doc: Bagworms absolutely chewed up our juniper planting. Can we prune them to make them look better?

Junipers don't regrow too readily. Try pruning and reshaping the plants. If all else fails, you may need to replant. Remember to spray at first signs of the pest.

Dear Doc: When do we plant flowering kale? Where can we buy seed?

Plant it right away in seed flats or pots, then set outside once plants are 2-3 inches tall.

Sixty-five million youths have joined the Boy Scouts of America since it was founded in 1910.

Fall Season Perfect To Change Gardens

Fall is a good time to do a little landscaping and rearranging in your yard. Add a new flower bed or border. Move perennials and bulbs to a more desirable location. Container grown evergreens may be used to replace or add any desired planting.

If you are able to do so now is a good time to add peat moss, Perma Gro, Winterizer and Root Stimulator fertilizer or bulb and bedding plant food. If you are raking your leaves use them in the compost heap or add them to the top of your beds working the peat moss, fertilizer, leaves, etc. into a depth of six or eight inches; this will help to build the soil and make the plants grow and bloom.

Well prepared soil is an asset when it comes planting time. Soon after you plant bulbs or seeds or small plants the tender little roots begin to grow and seek food and moisture for growth and blooms.

The ideal soil is porous and drains well but it will have a tendency to hold moisture for the roots. Fertilizer should be used at planting time only if your bed preparation is such that it will be dug in and evenly distributed throughout the soil; otherwise use only a root stimulator solution which will be available at your local nursery.

If you are making a compost heap the addition of a compost maker will help the action and the compost will be made in a much shorter time. Compost may be added at any time you are cultivating your beds or garden.

Almost any garden spot is suitable for bulb planting. You may prefer meadow planting or naturalized plantings to that of a formal garden. Bulbs are very attractive focal points at the base of trees and shrubs. They may be planted in the foreground of existing hedges, fences or other plantings.

You may wish to combine them with your annuals and perennials. A bulb planting beneath your pansy bed is very effective in early spring when the pansies are still blooming and the tulips, daffodils, hyacinths or other spring bulbs start flowering.

The foliage does not detract from the other plantings and the same care aids both the annual planting and the bulbs. In late spring the pansy plants may be replaced with summer annuals such as zinnias, petunias, marigolds or vincas. In this way you will be able to enjoy year round color and beauty.

After you have prepared and planted your beds you may wish to mulch the plantings so as to conserve moisture, prevent weed growth and protect from winter cold.

A good bark mulch may be spread around the growing plants taking care to leave an area exposed around any cold loving plants such as peonies.

You may wish to clean your rose bed. Revitalize it by removing all undesirable roses and replace them with new plants—if the ones you want to plant are not available now you will be ready when they arrive at the nursery.

The addition of soil sulphur to your rose bed as you cultivate it is helpful as roses need an acid soil. You may remove any dead limbs or runners from the roses but it would be better to wait until later to do any severe pruning.

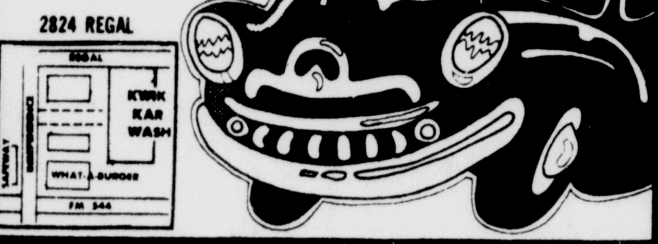

Remember running roses bloom next year on this year's growth—so take care when removing any runners from your climbing roses.

WHY SOME PLANTS GO TO POT

pot as much as you do in a clay pot, the net result is suffocation due to too much water around the roots, whereas 50% of the water applied to a clay pot evaporates before reaching the roots.

If you're in the process of repotting your plants before you move them indoors, see if you can find any fast moving pests in the soil. These could be springtails or symphylids, and can be controlled by mixing up a teaspoon of Black Leaf 40 (nicotine sulphate) to two quarts of water. Apply some around the base of the plant and it will check most underground pests.

During the current plant boom many a plant has gone to pot but don't blame your luck on the pot itself. You can grow good plants in both clay and plastic pots—you just have to understand how they work.

There are usually 3 types of containers normally used for growing house plants: clay, plastic and glazed. Glazed containers are the trickiest of all because they do not drain well and there's a great chance of overwatering or drowning the roots.

Plastic pots are used in large quantities because they are made at a fraction of the cost of the clay pots. They are lightweight, stack easily and that's why commercial growers like them. However, you can grow good plants in either type.

Let's discuss plastic pots first. They are not porous—do not "breathe." There is some evaporation from the soil surface (plus a little from drainage holes) but most of the water is used by the plant. There is no evaporation from the sides. If you water a plant in a plastic

The Backyard Gardner

By PATRICK DENTON
Copley News Service

Lately I have been describing various spring-flowering bulbs that are planted now, in the fall. I gave some planting tips for those who decided to take the plunge and try some out.

But what about those who, like me, are too impatient to wait for April and the first blooms to appear? And what about those who live in the extremes of cold and warm winters in the northern and southernmost parts of our continent? They have special problems growing these lovely blooms, because of either too much or too little cold.

Potting up spring-flowering bulbs for early bloom in the house is usually called "forcing" bulbs, though the process does not really involve force. What it does involve is simulating the period of cold and rest the bulbs, in the normal course of events outdoors, need to bloom in the spring, then bringing them to wakefulness and flowering earlier than they would normally awaken in the outdoor garden.

What do you need to have in order to successfully bring bulbs to bloom indoors? You need the right varieties of bulbs, a cold, dark corner in your basement (or space in your fridge), and patience.

Buy and pot the bulbs as early as possible in the fall. The most commonly used bulbs for indoor bloom are crocus, hyacinth, tulips and daffodil. But not all varieties are suitable for forcing. Catalogues list the ones that are, and nurseries will have the forcing types indicated.

My favorite indoor tulips are General de Wet for its fragrance, and Carlton for its gorgeous red color. You can't beat King Alfred for magnificence in indoor daffodils. Geranium and Barrett Browning and good white-and-orange ones for forcing. Just about all crocus are easy to force into indoor bloom, and most of the hyacinths, one large bulb to a pot.

Bulb pans are good to use for potting bulbs. They are made just half as high as usual, so that more space is available for the bulbs without all the unnecessary height which tends to make the taller varieties topple over too easily.

Fill the pot part way with sandy soil, set the bulbs on top of the soil and cover with enough soil to just barely cover the pointed tips of the bulbs and leave the soil level one inch below the pot's rim.

Face the flat side of tulip bulbs towards the rim of the pot — the largest leaf will sprout from this flat side. The bulbs can be set close together, for the most effective display. Keep just one variety to a pot so that they will all bloom together.

Once they are potted, water thoroughly and put the pots in your cold room or other cold, dark corner of your basement. Ideally, the bulbs need about a month at 50 degrees F. (10 C.) and another month or more at a bit colder. The large bulbs can be brought into a subdued light when the shoots are grown three to four inches. Keep the soil moist but not wet while the bulbs are forming roots during their cold period.

Do not bring the bulbs into light too soon. Impatience is the most common cause of failure. I bring ours from the cold room onto the cool, moderate light of the laundry room floor to allow the shoots to color slowly. When the flowers open, keep them out of sunny windows and the blooms will last longer.

You cannot force the same bulb twice. After blooming, let the foliage ripen and dry; store the bulb in the basement in its pot and plant it in the garden in the fall.

Turfgrass Can Add To Quality of Life

By Robert L. Haney
TAHS Science Writer

The quality of life is improved from the beauty of turfgrasses, particularly when grown in combination with flowers, shrubs, and tree plantings in a total landscape concept.

According to Dr. James B. Beard, turf and crop physiologist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, a more favorable, harmonious environment and improved mental health are important benefits of turfs, particularly to people living in high density urban areas.

Beard suggests seven distinct areas in which turfs make significant functional contributions to the quality of life.

Grass is by far the most effective and least costly method available to stabilize soil against loss by water erosion, whether it be on a road-side, park, lawn, ditch bank, institutional ground, or ski slope.

Dust stabilization value of an established lawn is well known to those who have lived in a newly-constructed house. Wind-blown dust can permeate a house or other building decreasing comfort and increasing cleaning problems.

Heat dissipation is a valuable byproduct of green, actively-growing grasses which release water to the atmosphere by transpiration. This conversion of water from liquid to vapor requires energy and, in effect, cools the leaf surface. This process dissipates heat, and is particularly valuable in urban areas where there are high concentrations of hard surfaces that absorb and radiate heat.

Noise abatement is helped by turfs, plus surrounding tree and shrub vegetation. Properly placed, vegetation can decrease the noise level by 15 to 45 percent at a distance of 30 to 70 feet along intensely-trafficked urban freeways.

Turfgrasses have a low-level, diffuse reflection that causes nominal glare and associated eye discomfort in contrast to relatively smooth surfaces such as snow, sand, and many types of hard surfaces on buildings, streets and sidewalks.

Safety is enhanced by the higher-cut turfs along road-sides which aid in safer emergency stoppage of vehicles. Similarly, turfs on recreational sport fields provide a cushion which reduces the shock and potential injury to players.

Perennial grasses maintained under turf conditions provide low-cost, attractive surfaces for numerous outdoor leisure, recreational, and competitive sport activities such as baseball, croquet, field hockey, football, golf, lawn bowling, lacrosse, rugby, skiing and soccer.

Home lawns represent the major form of turfgrass usage, but the increasing usage throughout the State is also associated with allied human activities on the grounds of businesses, industrial complexes, parks, public institutions, recreational areas, highways.

"St. Augustinegrass is widely utilized on-lawn turfs throughout Texas while bermudagrasses are more extensively used for sport and recreational turfs. A collection of St. Augustinegrass selections is being made from throughout the world to find genetic materials that are superior in resistance to diseases and insects, have low nitrogen and water requirements, and improved tolerance to environmental stresses such as drought, heat, and cold.

Lawns Damaged By Armyworms

This is the time of year when the fall armyworm can ravage newly-emerged small grains, native and improved pastures, lawns and gardens.

Heavy armyworm outbreaks are usually associated with wet weather, which is something we've had plenty of lately. Often, severe damage occurs before the armyworm infestation is discovered. Since large worms are more difficult to control than small ones, early detection is very important.

The adult form of the armyworm is a dark gray moth with a wing span of about one and a half inches. Female moths lay eggs in masses on the host plant. Small greenish larvae hatch from the eggs several days later and feed for about three weeks before burrowing into the ground to enter the pupal stage. Adult moths will emerge about ten days later.

Armyworms in small grains and pastures can be controlled with methyl parathion, parathion, Dylox, or Sevin. On lawns and gardens, some recommended materials are Sevin, Diazinon, and Dylox. Always follow the instructions and precautions on any insecticide label.

Remember, early detection of the infestation is crucial in controlling armyworms and preventing extensive damage. This involves going to the field and getting down on your hands and knees to look for the small worms.

Queenswreath

Vine Beautifies Area

Were there a Top 40 for garden plants, queenswreath would not be on it. Not by a long shot. But it's still a fine vine, much worth a chance in your garden.

The plant is obviously loved, given such beautiful names as queenswreath, coralvine and rosa de montana. Botanically it's "Antigonon leptopus"—not quite so melodic.

It and two or three other close relatives are native to Mexico and Central America. In their tropical homes the vines range to 40 feet. Flower heads are many inches long, individual florets 2-3 inches across. Here, in the less tropical Dallas area, expectations should be scaled downward.

Queenswreath will need winter protection to survive North Texas cold. Once frost has killed back the tops, mulch the roots with compost or humus. Should the tuberous roots freeze over winter, simply replant in the spring.

Give the vine plenty of room and full or nearly full sun. Keep the soil well watered to keep the plant vigorous. Fertilize regularly with high phosphate fertilizers (middle number of the analysis). High nitrogen feedings discourage blooming.

Queenswreath, like hibiscus and oleanders, is more popular farther south. South Texas gardeners, and even many hereabouts, use it effectively to break harsh lines of walls. Other designs put queenswreath to work on wrought iron fences, on poles and on arbors. Its vigorous and airy habits of growth make it most useable.

Good vines are at a premium. Beyond Carolina jasmine, roses, honeysuckle and a few chosen others, there simply aren't many good ones. But even more lacking in gardening is summer color. Queenswreath seems ripe for a rebirth of interest.

It's always nice to have something unusual. Just as we can't live by bread alone, we also can't look forever at mulberries and waxleaf ligustrums.

Iron ore was discovered in the Mesabi Range of Minnesota on Sept. 15, 1844.

Your Birthday

Oct. 22, 1977

Lady Luck may take a more active interest in you this coming year than she has for some time. Through her good offices she could help swell your back account and standing in the community.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The opportunities around you today are larger in scope than usual. Be alert for unique clues that could tip you off to something big. Find out who you're romantically suited to by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions as a whole are extremely favorable for you today and things should go much to your liking. The one flaw: You're wasteful with your resources.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Persons who care for you will be diligently working for you today. Hurt feelings could result if you do not acknowledge their efforts properly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You need to be involved in activities today with friends whose company you enjoy. Spending time alone could cause you to feel depressed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A substantial harvest is likely if you're enterprising today. Focus your energies on areas that could add to your income.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be yourself today. You'll easily win and influence friends. Pretense in any form diminishes the luster of your image.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be fortunate today working on large or unusual ideas partially developed by others. What you're able to add makes them more worthwhile.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Friends and acquaintances will play important roles in your affairs today. You'll be lucky with old allies, but you could be deceived by one you've recently met.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Important achievements are possible today. Concentrate solely on major goals. Devote little time to frivolous side issues.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your warm, friendly manner makes you a very pleasant person to be around today. Unfortunately, duties will be neglected while you pursue pleasure.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This should be a profitable day, as you're very clever in commercial dealings. Follow your hunches.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Associate with worthy allies today. Your greatest benefits will come through persons you're teamed up with. Select potential winners.

Hot water may help brass

POLLY'S PROBLEM

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — I cleaned my brass this morning and found some marks that I could not remove with brass polish. I also found one tray had a sort of green mold on the back. I would appreciate any comments. —MRS. S.S.

DEAR MRS. S.S. — Perhaps some of your brass pieces are brass plated and these marks are where the brass finish has worn off. The green on the tray may be polish that remained after a cleaning. Often this happens and one sees green left, particularly in crevices where a brush should be used to clean and remove the polish. I find it much better to wash a piece in hot soapy water and then rinse in hot water and rub dry to a shine (after cleaning) to be sure all the polish is removed. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those individuals who run all over town tacking up their ugly garage sale signs on posts and other people's property. Then to make matters worse they do not remove them when the sale is over. Sometimes they would stay forever if the property owners did not remove them. — MRS. K.N.

DEAR POLLY — I think I have a great idea for those who have posters or pictures they want to frame but do not have a lot of money to spend. You can make your own frames and have fun doing it. Buy some felt in the desired color. Cut into strips the proper lengths for all sides of the picture and the width you would like for the framing. I used all-purpose white glue to attach the strips to the picture. Be careful not to over-glue: a little goes a long way. Rub a finger across to spread the glue slightly. This keeps the glue from running out from under the felt and getting on the picture when pressed down to dry. When making such a frame for a poster I use colored thumb tacks the color of the felt to tack it to the wall. —SUSAN.

DEAR READERS — This seems a very good idea. I think it would work and look even better if the strips were cut on the diagonal at the corners to give a mitered effect. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My helpful hint is for campers. I always had a problem keeping milk fresh in our camper icebox until I discovered that if the milk is bought in a gallon size plastic bottle and frozen just before leaving it will keep fresh for days. In fact, after four days in the icebox there was still a frozen chunk in the milk keeping it very cold. I buy whole milk; I think milk that has been frozen has a tendency to be watery but by buying whole milk it tasted just fine. —LUCY.

DEAR POLLY — I use the plastic net bag that a turkey came in to hold the kids' bathtub toys. I hang it over the tub so the water drips out. They are kept dry and do not mildew. —ADELE.

JV Wins, 10-6

Plano Tops Richardson

BY BILL LAROE

Thursday night, the Plano Senior High Junior Varsity football team played host to the Richardson Eagles JV squad at John Clark Field. The Wildcats upped their record to 6-1-0 by defeating the Eagles, 10-6.

The game was a defensive battle all the way with Plano gaining only 195 yards total offense and 194 of it on the ground. Richardson gained 239 yards with 195 on the ground.

Plano's running attack was well balanced, though. The yardage was split evenly between the members of the Wildcat backfield. Running back Ricky Gaddis had 61, running back Wes Stover was next with 59 and quarterback Joe Simpson and running back Mason Mitchell each had 37 yards.

Passing was not a high point for the 'Cats, as Simpson went one for seven for a total of one yard and one interception.

The Wildcat defense caused five turnovers during the contest. Three were interceptions and two of them were fumbles.

Plano received the opening kickoff on their own 11-yard line. Using their strong running attack, Plano marched down the field and on an 18-yard burst around right end, Stover scored the first touchdown for the 'Cats.

The touchdown capped an 81-yard drive that took 13 plays and ate up 5:31 off the clock. Hans Mansion added the PAT and with 6:29 left in the first quarter, Plano led 7-0.

On the ensuing kickoff, Richardson fumbled the ball and Plano recovered at the Eagles' 28. However, the Eagles grabbed the ball right back by interception on their own 11-yard line.

Richardson drove to Plano's five-yard line where the 'Cats held firm and took over possession. Other first half highlights saw a Plano defensive lineman intercept a screen pass to put Plano on the Richardson 19-yard line. Just before halftime, Mason Mitchell intercepted an Eagle pass on Plano's 22. The 'Cats were unable to take advantage of the field position on both turnovers.

In the third quarter, Plano attempted two field goals but both failed. One from 28 yards veered off to the left and the other, a 51-yarder, fell short.

Plano's final points came in the fourth quarter on a 42-yard mansion field goal to widen Plano's lead to 10-0.

Late in the fourth period, Simpson ran for a 35-yard touchdown but it was called back on a clipping penalty.

Richardson's only score came with 3:05 left in the game on a 24-yard pass across the middle. The Eagles tried a two-point conversion but failed.

Richardson's TD capped a 10-play, 89-yard drive which followed a Plano punt.

BY JERRY PRICKETT

It seemed like two entirely different games.

After a scoreless first half that was dominated by the Richardson Eagles "B" team, the Williams Warrior sophomore team came back to defeat the Eagles, 14-0, Thursday night at John Clark Field.

Williams' defense completely dominated the second half in allowing Richardson only 35 yards and one first down late in the fourth quarter.

Both of the Warrior scores were by running back Vincent Neal, the leading rusher with 138 yards. The first score was an 11-yard run by Neal after a 52-yard Williams' drive.

Key plays in the drive were 14 and five yard runs by Neal for first downs and a nine-yard run by Julius Johnson.

"Neal was running really good," said Warrior Coach Roy Stone. "Julius Johnson was doing a good job blocking for him too."

The second Warrior touchdown came on a 62-yard drive. Williams concentrated on handoffs to Neal off tackle and around the end and he scored on a one-yard run with 5:43 left in the fourth quarter. The PAT was good and Williams led 14-0.

Richardson also scored at the end of the game after a bad snap from center on a Warrior punt.

The Eagles ran for a first down at the Williams four-yard line on a 15-yard run. But the Williams' defense held and ran out the clock after the Eagles turned the ball over on downs.

"It was by far our best game," said Coach Stone. "Coach David Wood did an outstanding job calling the defense signals and coaching the defensive line."

"Coach Vance Gibson did a good job with the linebackers. Our whole defense really hit hard," added Stone.

The first half was dominated by the Eagles with the Warriors getting only three first downs. Richardson did have one long drive but were stopped by a Ronnie Mullins' interception at the six-yard line.

The Warriors will play next against Bryan Adams, next Wednesday at 6 p.m. at John Clark Field.

SWC Roundup

Texas Faces SMU

By MIKE RABUN
UPI Sports Writer

After removing two king-sized boulders from their path, the Texas Longhorns now are faced with a road full of pebbles.

But they still need to watch where they are walking. As former Longhorns coach Darrell Royal once said just before his club played Baylor:

"The best team doesn't always win."

The steamrolling, second-ranked Longhorns, surely the nation's most surprising team of 1977, rate as a huge favorite going into Saturday's tangle with Southern Methodist in the Cotton Bowl.

But Texas will be hard pressed to produce anywhere near the emotion it did during the past two weeks for the Oklahoma Sooners and Arkansas Razorbacks while the Mustangs are quite high after their three touchdowns in 39 seconds performance in the upset over Houston last week.

"I think their win got our attention," said Texas coach Fred Akers. "Our players are planning to be as ready as possible. And SMU's win will help us get ready."

No matter how ready the unbeaten Longhorns are, the mere presence of fullback Earl Campbell and kicking whiz Russell Erxleben should ensure Texas of its sixth win and another week at the top of the Southwest Conference standings with 11th-ranked Texas A&M.

Texas and A&M are the only two clubs left with unblemished SWC marks.

The Aggies (4-1), who showed signs of still suffering from the post-Michigan blues last week against Baylor, meet Rice in Houston and a game with the Owls (1-5) this year has become the closest thing available to an automatic victory in the SWC.

Only one other conference game is on the schedule and that should be the best of the bunch.

Houston (3-2), down-trodden from injury, probation and the last-minute loss to SMU, will try to regroup against the Arkansas Razorbacks (4-1), who are also in a low frame of mind following their setback against Texas.

"It is difficult to bounce back from losses of this nature," said Arkansas coach Lou Holtz. "You have no idea what will happen. I've never seen this team in this situation before (the loss to the Longhorns was Arkansas' first of the year), but I will be very disappointed if they don't bounce back."

In nonconference games this week Baylor (2-4) will host the Air Force and TCU (1-4 after breaking its 15-game losing streak two weeks ago) will be at home against the Miami Hurricane. Miami has won its last three games.

The SMU Mustangs football program is showing signs of life under coach Ron Meyer, but the club is still very young.

"I think their early schedule helped them gain some confidence and allowed them to make progress. And they really took advantage of it."

Jabbar Fined $5,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien is not a boxing fan when the combatants are NBA players and the arena is a basketball court, so Thursday he fined Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar a record $5,000 for punching Milwaukee rookie center Kent Benson.

Abdul-Jabbar, who has a broken hand from the Tuesday night incident, escaped without a suspension because of the severity of his injury. Benson, an All-America from Indiana, suffered a mild concussion and lacerations when he was decked.

"The fact that a single, swift act of violence resulted in injuries to two players points up the danger and recklessness of such action," said O'Brien. "Conduct of this nature will not be tolerated and will be punished accordingly. Every player in the NBA is on notice that I oppose fighting during games, no matter what the provocation. I will use all the powers of my office to prevent violence within the NBA."

The largest previous fine was the $2,500 apiece levied against Maurice Lucas of the Portland Trail Blazers and Darryl Dawkins of the Philadelphia 76ers for fighting during last season's championship playoffs.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) — Sapporo, the Japanese city which hosted the 1972 Winter Olympics, Thursday officially submitted its bid to the International Olympic Committee for staging the 1984 Winter Games.

Tesuya Hirase, deputy mayor of Sapporo, presented

IOC president Lord Killanin with an official letter at the IOC headquarters at the Chateau de Vidy on the shores of Lake Geneva. Hirase said Sapporo would have to spend comparatively little money — "only about one billion yen ($4 million)" — to stage the Games again, "because most of the facilities are already constructed."

No other city has yet requested to host the 1984 Winter Games.

Allen 8th Wins, 14-6

Allen's eighth grade maintained their unbeaten record with a 14-6 victory over the Wylie eighth grade Tuesday night.

Allen got on the board first in the first quarter on a six-yard run by Kye Harris. James Cardwell got the two-point conversion on a power play to give the Eagles a 8-0 lead.

Wylie scored before the half on a five-yard run but the point after failed and the Eagles led at halftime 8-6.

In the fourth quarter Troy Taylor scored from 20 yards out on a veer option. The point after failed but the Eagles went on to win the game 14-6.

Cardwell and Eddie Shafer were both cited for outstanding plays on defense in recovering two fumble's between them.

Other standouts were Taylor, Harris and Allen Davis.

"Wylie has a super team and coaches," said Coach P.D. Thomas, "they are by far the best we've seen this year. Our boys were ready and it's a good thing, they had to play with everything they had to beat this group." The Eagles are open next week.

Thou Art Christ

When Christ first began his ministry, many people were puzzled. They were aware that He was extraordinary, for He said things that no man had said before Him. He questioned the established laws of religion. He even said that there were conditions under which His laws transcended the laws of the Church.

One person, Peter, knew who He was. When Christ asked him, "But whom say ye that I am?" Peter answered, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." For this Christ rewarded Peter saying, "thou art Peter and upon this rock I will build my church." (Matthew 16:15-19) After Christ's crucifixion, Peter traveled everywhere, preaching the gospel and establishing the early church.
